

Call for Papers on "Enhancing Public Performance Through Interagency and Cross-sector Collaboration".

Wouter Van Dooren (University of Antwerp) and Rosemary O'Leary (University of Kansas) invite paper proposals for the Transatlantic Dialogue Workshop on "Enhancing public performance through interagency and cross-sector collaboration" to be held June 9-11, 2022. The Workshop will be hosted by the Department of Social Sciences and Business at Roskilde University, Denmark.

The focus of this Workshop is on performance, performance management and the use of performance data in collaborative contexts. Collaboration between organizations and sectors is increasingly common practice. Yet, much needs to be learned on how to adapt performance practices for horizontal group settings. In this workshop, we will study how interactions between public agencies, and collaborations between public and private actors (PPP) enhance performance and influence the effectiveness public governance. We will also ask how the performance of interagency and cross-sector collaboration can be assessed and measured as well as how performance indicators are used (or misused) in collaborative settings. The workshop is open to theoretical, conceptual, and empirical contributions in the field of performance and collaborative governance.

Please send a paper abstract by March 1, 2022 to Wouter and Rosemary at the email addresses below. You will be provided feedback by March 15, 2022.
